

[College Essay Example]

Wisdom is the number one, the virtue par excellence, the one without equal.

The ultimate reason for a pursuit of a great education is not only to enrich one with the knowledge of the world, but rather use this understanding in the most productive way to promote the well-being of others and pay tribute to one's creator. This is my education philosophy, and the creed I live by even if it brings a great responsibility for me to be able to live up to it. Being a part of the small community of the Karen, ethnic group in Burma, I know as a young age, what my purpose in life is: to serve my people, the Karen, as well as the entire population of Burma.

With the rich history of a Jesuit education, I know Seattle University will prepare me for such a mission. Especially this time, where these people need some one to step in to give a helping hand so that they will stand again; I know I need to step in. The pursuit of education is one thing I can do to expand my potential, not only for the mind but also the heart. While in college I intend to enrich my knowledge and interest of math and healthcare field to be able to serve excessively. The small environment yet large asset to resources is my ideal atmosphere of learning. Knowing my studying will be successful with the interaction and attention I will receive from my educators and competitive aspect of learning which will challenge me to the best of my ability. As I may say I will always be the sculptor of my own deeds, Seattle University will be the fire that solidifies them. Thus being the reason I want to broaden my educational goals under the teaching at Seattle University.
